Symbol of superiority

Precision Mating of Barrels. The mating of barrels of any over and under shotgun is one of the most critical aspects of the gun's construction. Each set of barrels is precisely fitted to the breech block system on the Athena. Then the breech block itself is hand fitted to the receiver for the closest tolerances possible. All models of the Athena are equipped with matted, double ventilated top and side ribs and bead front sight.

Stock and Forearm. The Athena stock is carved from specially selected Claro walnut. Each stock has fine line hand checkering. The durable high lustre finish serves to protect and preserve the beauty of the Athena for years to come. To complete this beautiful shotgun Weatherby has added a rosewood pistol grip cap with white line spacers and the famous Weatherby diamond inlay, and a full recoil pad. The forearm is full sized with finger grip channels on each side.

Trap model Athena shotguns are available only with Monte Carlo style stocks. The trap gun features a wider rib, a centre brilliant bead and a front white bead, and a curved recoil pad. This special trap style pad is designed to fit the shooter's shoulder in a manner that enables him to return the shotgun to the same position for shot after shot consistency.

A plus for the trap and skeet reloader who wishes to retain his fired cases, Weatherby offers a unique feature not found on all shotguns. By merely removing the ejector and ejector spring, and then replacing the ejector only, the fired cases may be extracted manually, rather than ejecting automatically and falling to the ground when the gun is broken open.

The Athena ... truly the summit of achievement in the gunmaker's art.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S NOTES

Olympic Games month, and soon our shooters will be gathering with the athletes of the world in Los Angeles, to celebrate the XXIIIrd Olympiad of the modern era.

The shotgun members of the team plan to train at Fort Benning and move into the village a few days before the Opening Ceremony on July 28.

The Olympic Trap match takes place July 29 to 31. Skeet is scheduled for August 2 to 4. The shooting events take place at Prado Recreational Park, which is located 67km from the Olympic Village. The journey to the range will take competitors about an hour.

Three trap layouts have been built, and are super-imposed over the three skeet fields.

Our best wishes go with Coach Peter Quire, and team members Alex Crikis, Ian Hale, Terry Rumbel and Jim Ellis.

The newly constituted International Shooting Committee met recently in Melbourne. Bob Buchan was re-elected Chairman of the Committee which is responsible for all International shooting, including the standard disciplines. Other Committee members are Jim Scott and Bob Smith N.S.W., Stan Collins Victoria, Tim Catling W.A., and National Training Squad Manager/Coach Peter Quire.

John Summers has had to withdraw from the Skeet Team to visit the U.S. in July, and his place will be taken by Kevin Perkins of Illawarra N.S.W. who was the first emergency for the team. Kevin was also a member of the Trap Team that visited U.K. in 1982. The Skeet Team, under Manager Bob Buchan, leaves for San Antonio on Saturday, July 14.

Enjoy your shooting.

As usual the weather was bright and sunny in the Centre with the temp. around the 30°C mark.

The shoot was officially opened by the Honourable Jim Robertson M.L.A., the Club Patron, Ian Butcher the Club President took advantage of the occasion to request Jim to also officially open the Club which has enjoyed its present location for a number of years without an opening.

● A good cross-section of competitors at Alice Springs Easter Shoot. Brian Bourke, Andrew Butcher, Ann Horne, Ted Martin and Murray Taylor.

Numbers were down on previous years due to many shooters opting to make the trip to Alice for the Northern Territory Carnival to be held in June. Many shooters, due to distance and expense, can only make it to Alice once a year. However, the shoot was a success and all agreed that Northern Territory hospitality is worth a long drive. Shooters travelled from throughout the Territory, from Queensland, South Australia and Victoria, giving a total of roughly 40 shooters.

An impressive trophy display kept the standard of competition high throughout the shoot with shoot-offs in most events. Phil Groves from Darwin and Roger Knapp from Brisbane kept the crowd enthralled with two very exciting shoot-offs. Phil eventually coming out in front in both but only after a lot of pressure from Roger. Shaun Evans, a Junior from the Alice Springs Club, put up a mighty performance leading the High Gun after the first day's shooting. Shaun featured highly in the trophy stakes, a force to be reckoned with in the future.

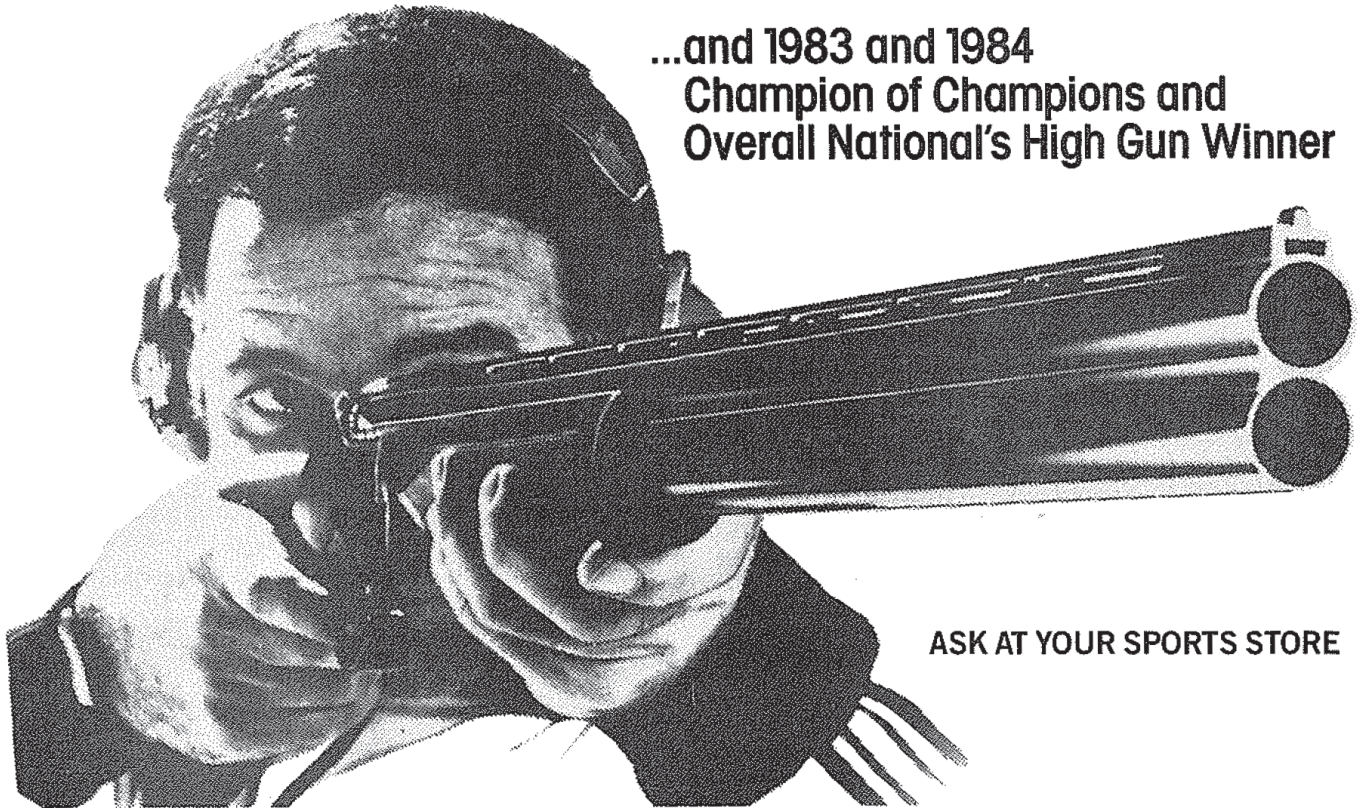

Ann Horne, another Alice Springs shooter, shot extremely well, taking many of the Ladies' trophies as well as competing successfully with her husband Julian tucker and kept an endless supply of refreshments up to hot and thirsty shooters. Also thanks to Sandra Butcher and Ernie Evans who did a great job in the office and the kids who kept the targets coming.

Many local businesses in Alice as well as local individuals kindly donated trophies and gave assistance without which the shoot would not have been possible. The committee thanks those concerned. During the shoot many of the interstate shooters commented on the friendly, relaxed and casual atmosphere during the shoot, so how about more shooters from other parts keep next Easter free and come and enjoy the hospitality at the Alice Springs Gun Club.

Just to wind up, a special mention to Mr Dennis Caddies on his consistent efforts over the shoot, dropping "one" is "two" many Dennis.

Broken Hill Gun Club — Annual West Darling Championships

Broken Hill Gun Club attracted 120 shooters to its Annual West Darling Championship Shoot. High scores were recorded in several events, with plenty of stamina required to go the distance and finish an outright winner.

Russell Mark, Bill Iles and Ken Bruns shot off for the honours in the West Darling Gift. Russell shot 217/217 to win the sash, defeating Bill 216/217. Ken gained third place with 171/172.

• Winner of the West Darling Gift, Russell Mark, with Club President Devon Johnston.

The tables reversed on Sunday though, when Bill Iles shot 402/402 (the highest score ever shot at our club) to defeat Russell Mark and Peter Marcioinni. Peter shot 118/119 to gain third place in the Broken Hill Firearms Gift.

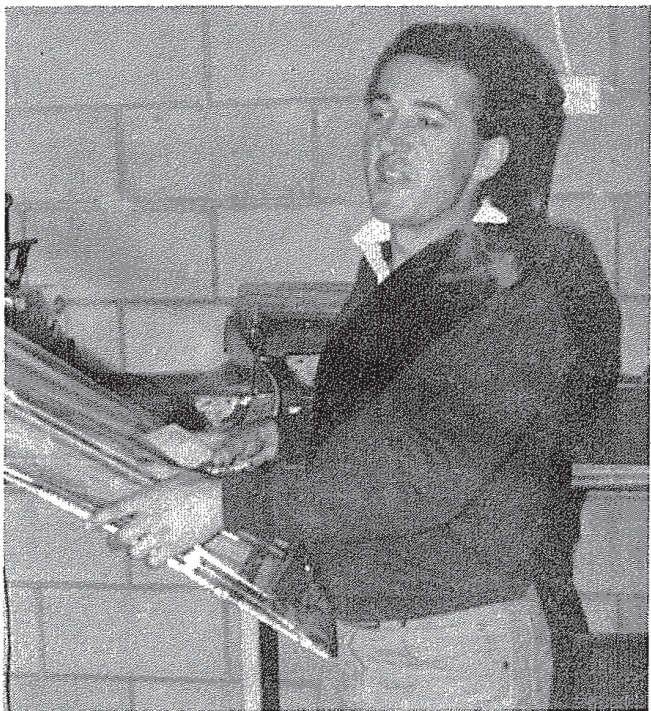

Terry Boucher shot 192/192 to win the overall West Darling D.B. Championships, with Bill Iles in second place. Terry went on to win the overall High Gun with a score of 192/195. Bob (Eta) Ross won the George Hoskins Memorial P.S. Championship for the second year in succession, defeating Jim Finis.

• Helen Ward from Broken Hill Firearms, with the Gift Winner Bill Iles, who shot 402/402 to win the event.

Junior shooter G. V. Reid shot well to win guns in the C Grade sections of the West Darling Gift and the Broken Hill Firearms Gift. Many thanks to Merv and Helen Ward of Broken Hill Firearms for their support in this event.

Only three possibles were shot in the S.B. Championship, the overall sash going to Ken Bruns 28/28 defeating M. Martini 27/28.

A BEGINNER'S GUIDE TO SHOTGUNNING

Roger Darwon

The number of new shooters taking to shotguns is growing rapidly, but once the decision is made to buy a shotgun, many new shooters face a long list of confusing problems.

Everything these days is so technically advanced we tend to take the perfection of the shotgun and its loads for granted. Yet that "perfection" has been developed in a remarkably short time. We need go back only a few years to find when it was measured in terms of massive fowling pieces, thousands of which are still around.

In fact, during the ammunition shortage around World War 2, many of the old guns were brought back into use to provide family meals in times of need. The sportsmen who dug them out from garages, wood sheds and other well-appointed repositories found them pretty tough to handle — a far cry from modern weapons. Shot-gunners sat down to ponder how the old-timers developed such outstanding skill with the clumsy old blunderbusses. Many, particularly in the late 1800s, scored only a shade poorer than some of the best we know today.

But gunmakers have developed their craft considerably since those days of the swayback cannons, and beginners now have it relatively easy. Let's take a close look at the basics of the art of shot-gunning.

It all starts with correct selection of the gun and the shell for the work you have in mind. The range appears endless — and it's growing every year. Today's keyword is specialisation, and there's no such thing as the all-round gun or load for all types of shot-gunning.

First we'll look over the gun types, barrel lengths and bores (barrel diameters) to give the learner some idea of the selection open to him. It's a vast subject — too big to be covered fully in one article — and before I get peppered from all angles I'd better point out that individual preference plays a big part in any choice. The views expressed by me or any group of experienced shooters or shot-gunners will doubtless be widely divergent, especially in matters of shell loads and gun chokes. In fact, wherever hunters and clay-target shooters gather, shotguns and their loads will always monopolise the conversation.

Before you buy a gun, consider whether your budding J. Newton Thomas is large for his age, or slight. What action type should you consider — an inexpensive single shot with the idea of trading up later, or a more expensive pump or double that the beginner will still be satisfied with 10 years from now? Then, for that matter, how much money can you afford? Do you re-load, which can make a difference in the gauge you should select? Also what kind of hunting do you have in mind? Or perhaps you intend trap shooting?

Chances are a youngster or a small person will not be comfortable with a full-sized stock. "Elementary, my dear Watson", did I hear someone mutter? You'd be surprised at the number of under-sized runts I see every year pushed into an over-sized stock. Fortunately Winchester, Harrington and Richardson, Savage, Ithaca and many others offer break-open single shot beginners' models, with stocks which are from 25 to 50mm shorter than the 355mm length of pull regarded as "standard" by most adult shooters. But almost any shotgun stock can be cut back if need be. While you're at it you could install a rubber butt plate or recoil pad to finish the job.

Degree of choke	Designation	Pattern
2 to 4/1000 in.	Improved Cylinder	50-55 percent
4 to 8/1000 in.	Modified choke	60-65 percent
	Improved Modified	65-70 percent
8 to 12/1000 in.	Full Choke	70-75 percent
	Super Choke	75-83 percent

The break-open single barrel shotgun has several things going for it as a first gun. To begin with, it's safe. It can hold only one load at a time, thus minimising the chance of an accidental discharge from that "empty" magazine. Most models have external hammers that must be cocked before the gun can be fired, so you can see at a glance how safe the gun is. As well, when the action is "broken", or open (as it should be when you're carrying the gun and crossing barriers), there is no way it can be fired.

The single is also usually well-balanced, in contrast to the muzzle-heavy pump or autoloader with its under-the-barrel magazine, which can be most awkward for a teenage shotgunner to swing and shoot. A weight-forward gun tends to pull a new or small shooter off balance, and trying to hold such a gun in a proper firing position will quickly tire the young muscles. But if the new gunner is well enough developed to handle the heavier shotgun, so much the better.

Next, let's consider shotgun types and bores. Some of the terms can be daunting to the uninitiated, so I'll try to explain as we go along. Standard shotguns made today include the single-barrel, single shot — typically the young boy's or beginner's first gun. There is another single shot on the market, a special for single barrel trap shooting.

Next is the old standard, the double barrel. Its barrels are side by side and operated by either one (recoil or perhaps mechanical) trigger, or two triggers. Usually, each barrel has a different choke (a slight restriction, or narrowing in the muzzle-end of the barrel), with the second barrel choked tighter to give a narrower pattern for longer range shots. It will shoot two shots at a time.

Then we have the over/under, also a double barrel, with one barrel above the other. The pump or slide action gun usually holds from three to six shots in a magazine. Ejection of the fired case and chambering of the fresh shell is by moving the handgrip beneath the gun's single barrel.

The automatic is also a single barrel arm with a magazine which holds from three to five shells. It should really be called a semi-automatic, as you have to pull the trigger for each shot. The term automatic really means a weapon that will fire a number of rounds with one single pull of the trigger — and they're illegal. There are two types of actions in semi-auto shotguns — spring-loaded and gas operated.

You can't really say one type of gun is better than the other. Each has its advantages and its limitations, but the single-barrel/single-shot is best for the beginner. The double guns give the shooter two different chokes, or shot patterns, in the one gun or their barrels are in two gauges, giving the shooter a very handy outfit. The repeaters throw only one single pattern, so choke must be something of a compromise. But they offer as many as six shots, which should give even the worst shot time to recover.

There are six standard sizes of shotgun bores — 10, 12, 16, 20 and 28 gauge, and .410 bore. The 10 and 28 gauges are seldom used outside America, so the Australian shotgunner is virtually restricted to four gauges. The words gauge and bore refer to the internal diameter of the barrel. The gun's gauge is based upon the number of round lead balls of a single size that will weigh one pound. Thus, a gun is said to be a 12 gauge when a ball which exactly fits the bore weighs one twelfth of a pound; one sixteenth pound for a 16 gauge shotgun and so on. Just to be difficult in the case of the little .410, a different standard of measurement is used. This figure represents the actual diameter of the bore measured in thousandths of an inch.

Most modern shotgun barrels are 660, 710 or 762mm long. The individual shooter's needs and preferences govern choice. Greater barrel length does not necessarily increase the effectiveness of Australian shotgun shells. Improved sighting obtained over a longer tube, or easier handling of the shorter barrels have little or nothing to do with the velocity or killing power of the shot charge. Modern smokeless powder burns much faster than the old black powder used to, so shorter barrels don't mean sacrificing velocity.

The choke controls the way your shot is grouped on a target. At its greatest the amount of choke in a shotgun barrel is measured only in some cases in thousandths of an inch. The table shows the percentage of pattern (shot) which would be thrown within a 75cm circle at 40m by varying degrees of choke.

Which pattern will suit you? The factor determining the right pattern is the distance at which you shoot your game or clay targets. (For the moment, we'll disregard shot size, which should vary with the different types of game). Few shotgunners can point true enough to kill game regularly at long ranges. For most 40 to 45m should be the limit at which they should attempt to shoot at game.

You'll note I said "point true". That's just what you do with a gun — you point it. You don't aim as in rifle shooting. Most beginners start out aiming their new shotgun, and they have a hard time until they master the new style.

The best possible pattern for any shooter is one which covers the largest possible area of a target yet maintains a density that will not allow the game through without being killed, or clay target to get away without a kill. The average new chum uses shot that's too heavy for the job. He assumes heavier shot will kill more game. That's not the case — heavier (larger) shot has fewer pellets to the charge, which means a more open pattern. A duck, for instance, could get through such a pattern, or, far worse, become a lost cripple. Therefore you owe it to yourself and to the game you hunt to know the pattern density of your shot before you start shooting.

Work it out by shooting several test patterns on paper at around 40 metres. A word of advice though — draw your 75cm circle around the pattern after you have fired it onto the paper. That way you'll get a true picture of the pattern.

Next, let's look at the shot size recommended for use on common game, and I suggest you study this well. It pays to keep a selection of loads of varying shot size at hand when you're gunning for game, as you never know what you'll see next.

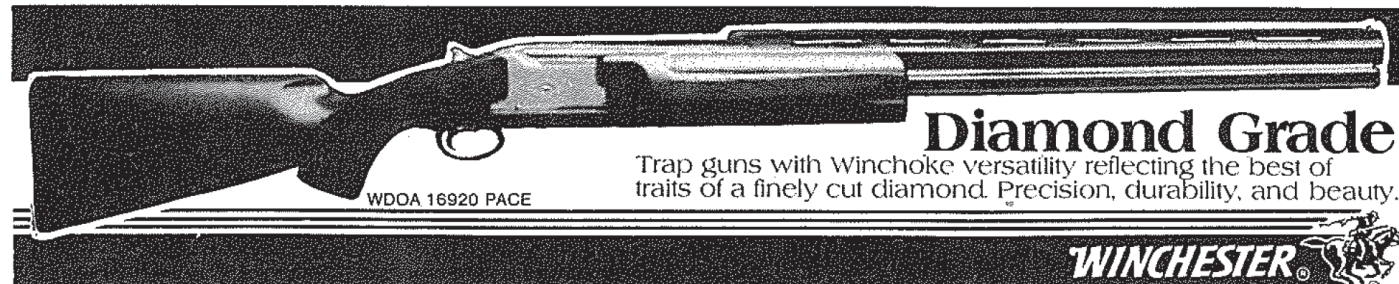

Game	Shot size
Ducks .....	4 to 7
Pheasants .....	5 to 7
Grouse .....	6 to 7½
Rabbit .....	6 to 8
Quail .....	7½, 8, 9

The pheasant, a comparatively large bird, is a good example to work on. The vital spots are the head, neck and thoracic cavity (where the neck joins the bird's body). They cover a small area — much smaller than you think at proper shooting range. Relatively small shot will kill the pheasant.

You must hit the vital parts. You can shoot through a pheasant's body with reasonably heavy shot, but if you miss the three vital parts it's a good chance you'll never see that pheasant again after it hits the ground. It will die later, but you'll have failed to add it to your bag and inflicted unnecessary suffering.

As a good guide, a clay target shot at, say, 40m with 3 drams of powder — 31.5g of 7½ shot — should be able to kill any duck or pheasant which is anywhere near the

COFFS HARBOUR GUN CLUB

Stan Simmonds

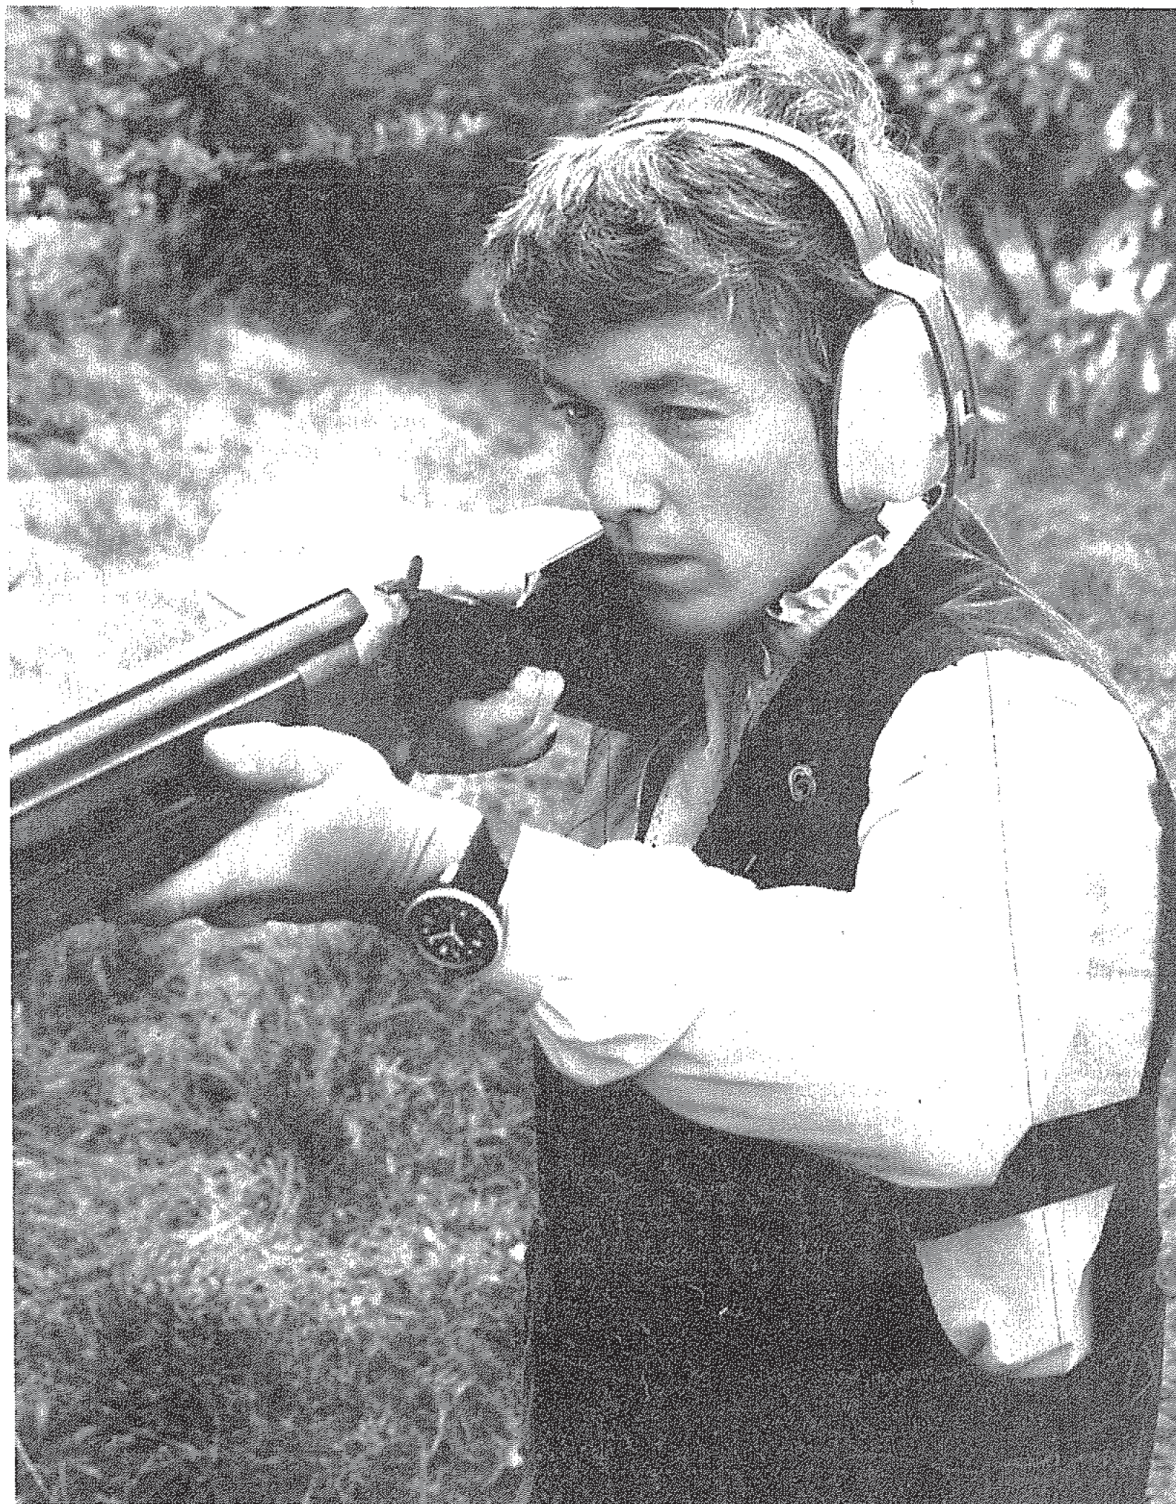

Mrs Helen Von Herten, a member of the Coffs Harbour Gun Club, won the ALEXANDER LATTER MEMORIAL SINGLE BARREL HANDICAP CHAMPIONSHIP SHOOT, at Kempsey Clay Target Shooting Club on Saturday, 19th May, 1984, against many top-line shooters. Mrs Von Herten was the only lady shooter and has been shooting for less than 12 months.

In the final round, Mrs Von Herten defeated Mr Arthur Fotheringham, a veteran Australian National shooter.

Mrs Von Herten's name will be inscribed on the Perpetual Shield and her trophy was the two-book set of Banjo Patterson's works, personally autographed by his granddaughters, who compiled the two volumes.

More will be heard of Helen's prowess in the field of Clay Target Shooting in the future.

Long ago trap shooters learned that full choke guns prevent "dusted" targets — those that dart through holes in load patterns. And the same thing holds true in the field. You must keep that shot charge in a tight bunch, to hit your game with enough pellets to make good clean kills. On the other hand you'll have more misses with your full choke gun, but they will be clean misses. A more open bore will nick the game, probably crippling it, and allowing it to escape. And that's poor shooting in anybody's book.

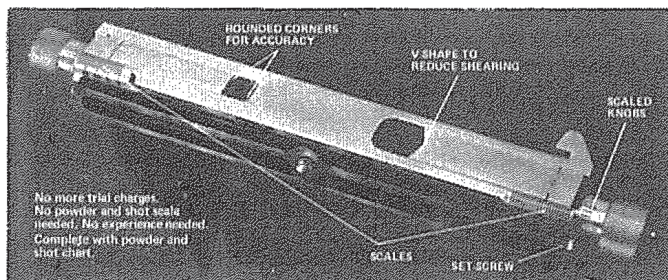

I often find new chums trying to kill game with the tiny .410 bore. Without under-selling this beaut little gauge, I must say that only a few hunters are good enough to kill game with it. It takes a real expert with plenty of gunning experience to make good kills with the little banger. A shooter who tries to kill ducks, pheasant, and medium game birds with the little .410, unless he is an expert, reminds me of a big game hunter going after elk or deer with a .22 rifle.

All things considered, I'd choose the 20g as the ideal gun for someone about to go into the world of shotgunning. If you happen to buy one with 76mm chambers, it can be fed an astounding variety of ammo ranging from, say, powder-puff 24.5g field loads up to 35g 76mm magnums which are capable of giving the standard 12 gauge a run for its money. (But you can expect the magnum shell to kick in the light little 20, so don't start off with the big ones.)

Chosen wisely, a shotgun will be a life-time investment. Once you've bought it, join a clay target club. They will make you welcome, and help you learn all the gun safety and gun manners which will make shotgunning for you, a really enjoyable experience.

OLYMPIC MARKSMEN SHOW FORM FOR L.A.

Chosen to represent Australia at the Los Angeles Olympic Games and winners of gold at the Brisbane Commonwealth Games, Ian Hale, Alex Crikis, Jim Ellis and Terry Rumbel were in Griffith on the 12th and 13th May to compete in a 200 target round of the NSW I.S.U. Eliminations.

Another star of the clay shooting scene, New Zealander John Woolley also attended to give a fine display of the latest American style of skeet shooting.

Not being residents of NSW, Hale, Crikis, and Woolley were not eligible for qualifications in the eliminations but were still able to compete for the sashes, medallions and trophies over the 200 target two day round.

Griffith shooter Garry McDonald, a member of this year's NSW I.S.U. Training Squad, competed for selection in the 1985 Trench Team and performed creditably against a star-studded line-up of past and present Australian Team representatives.

Tony Salafia of Leeton brought in a superb 25/25 during the first round of 100 targets trench shot on Saturday. His was one of only four perfect rounds to be shot over the trench layout that day, and was appreciated even more when it was noted that Salafia does not usually contest the International disciplines, preferring to coach his teenage sons over the down the line traps instead.

The other possibles went to Ellis (two) and John Maxwell, Australian representative who won the New Zealand Olympic Trap National Championship in Christchurch last August.

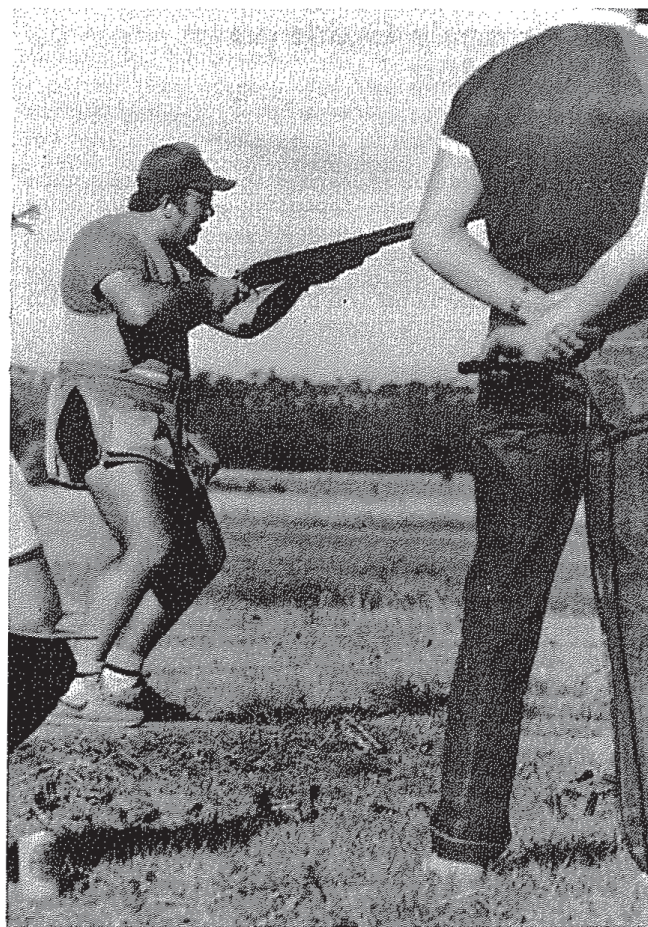

On the second day Narrandera's John Blain scored one round of 25/25, while Ellis scored a 50/50, as did Australian representative Stan Collins of Bairnsdale, Victoria.

On the I.S.U. Skeet side there were no M.I.A. competitors, as the Griffith Clay Target Club usually shoots only ordinary (or American) skeet, not the International discipline with its speeded-up targets (165 kph), and gun down, time delay style of shooting.

There was a very strong Victorian contingent with Hale and Crikis the Olympic representatives, as well as several Australian Team representatives.

Of these Hale, Brian Thomson, and Woolley of New Zealand carded the only 25/25s on Saturday, while Crikis, Thomson and Graham Guy added another to their tallies on Sunday.

Victorian Graham Guy took on the job of shoot marshal for skeet, club president Mr Keith Sim marshalled for the trench, Apex looked after the catering and the fine, sunny weather all weekend contributed to helping our Olympic visitors to take in one more practice round against top Australian competition before leaving for Los Angeles in just a few weeks time.

Mr Keith Sim, on behalf of the Griffith Clay Target Club and all shooters present, wished Hale, Crikis, Ellis and Rumbel a gold-filled return from the Olympics.

GLENN WOODHATCH

Bendigo Clay Target Club Secretary — Glenn Woodhatch is to compete for Australia, at the 1st World Police Olympic Games, in the clay target shooting events.

Glenn, a Senior Constable at Bendigo, and reigning Victorian Police Double Barrel Champion, will fly to Phoenix, Arizona, USA, early in August. He will be accompanied by workmate Snr Const Noel Webster (a cyclist), and seven other Victorian Police sportsmen and sportswomen.

Some of Glenn's travel and accommodation costs will be met from nominations paid by shooters who enter a special event, at the Bendigo Gun Club, on Saturday July 7th. Winchester have been generous in their support, donating two cases of shells, and all other prizes, targets, sashes, etc., have been donated as well, so that all costs have been met, without the necessity of deduction from entry fees.

As well as being Bendigo's club secretary, Glenn is secretary of the North East Zone of the VCTA, and president of the Bendigo Field & Game Association. It is hoped that his untiring efforts for the shooting sports will be rewarded with a good attendance of shooters from throughout the region, at the special shoot. ## NEVILLE SHEEHAN

For the second year in succession Barellan's Sports-person of the Year Award has been won by a shooter.

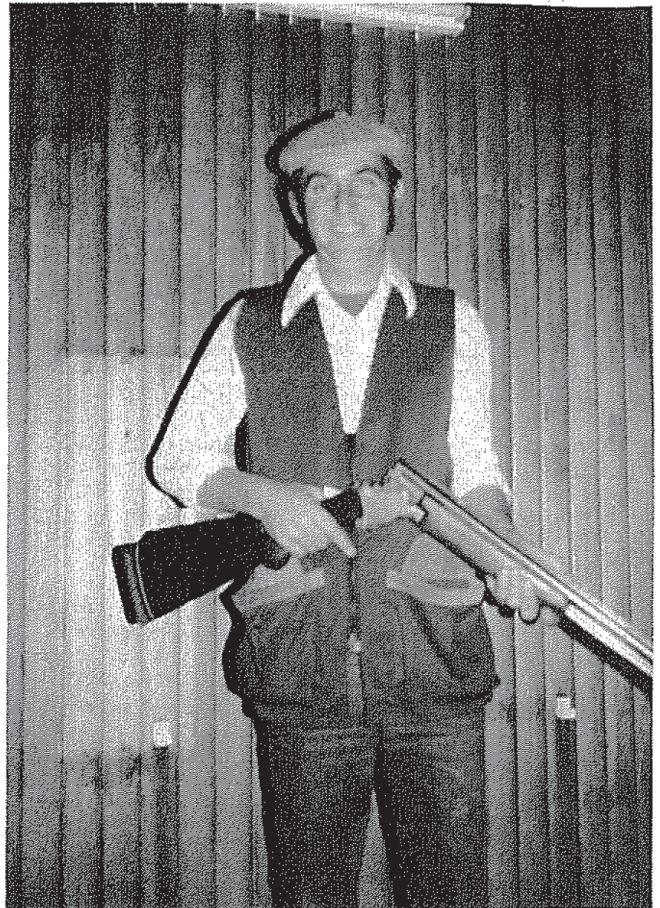

Neville Sheehan, along with his wife Maureen, were both nominated by the Barellan Gun Club for their achievements in the sport of clay target shooting.

At a presentation dinner held at the Barellan War Memorial Club recently, Neville was declared the winner.

Neville first started shooting in May 1982 and since then has won numerous Championships and trophies throughout the Riverina and has increased his handicap to 22 metres.

Last year Ian Whytcross won the Award and he was delighted with Neville's success this year, as Ian not only introduced Neville to the sport but has coached him as well.

Barellan Gun Club congratulates Neville, Maureen and Ian on their achievements and all other nominees of the Sports-person of the Year Award.

N.S.W. POLICE GAMES SHOOT AT WAKEHURST

● The March Past of Shooters at the Police Championships.

B. Goodwin

On the weekend of 27-28 April, Wakehurst Gun Club again played host to police shooters competing in the Annual New South Wales Police Games.

Retired policeman Cliff Brown, a regular shooter at Wakehurst, proved too hard to topple in the trap events, disposing of the fifty targets in the championship in fine fashion. He was kept on his mettle however by second placegetter Max Gregory 49/50 and Jack Kelland of Sutton Forest, who came in with 47/50. In the twenty-five target handicap event, Cliff and Ted Warner both shot the possible and the medals were decided in a brief shoot off; final scores being Cliff Brown 29/29, Ted Warner 28/29 and Geoff Wright 24/25.

On Sunday, conditions did not at times favour the skeet shooters and Max Gregory took the gold medal with 44/50. Cliff Brown, being off his game for some reason, dropped a few to take the silver with 41/50 and Ted Warner gained the bronze with 38/50. The shoot off for the gold medal for High Gun was decided over twenty-five targets in favour of Cliff Brown, who was then one up on Max Gregory, with Ted Warner again coming in third.

Colin Sim and Eric Stanno of Wakehurst generously donated a Shield for perpetual competition between a Police team and a team from Wakehurst. In a cliff hanger, the inaugural shoot was won by one target by the Police team comprising Cliff Brown, Max Gregory, Ted Warner, Geoff Wright, Jack Kelland and Ron Milligen. Cliff Brown again shot faultlessly to end up with a total trap score of 104/104. Shooters from as far as West Wyalong and Walcha took part in the competition, which created a good deal of interest and was held along with normal weekend activities at Wakehurst.

Western Australian State Trench Titles

CHAS. RIEGERT

SATURDAY 18

Saturday dawned cool and cloudy, a radical change from the hot weather of the past week, with a strong south easterly wind gusting to about 20 miles an hour. It would seem that we are getting quite good at arranging this type of weather for the State Trench Titles.

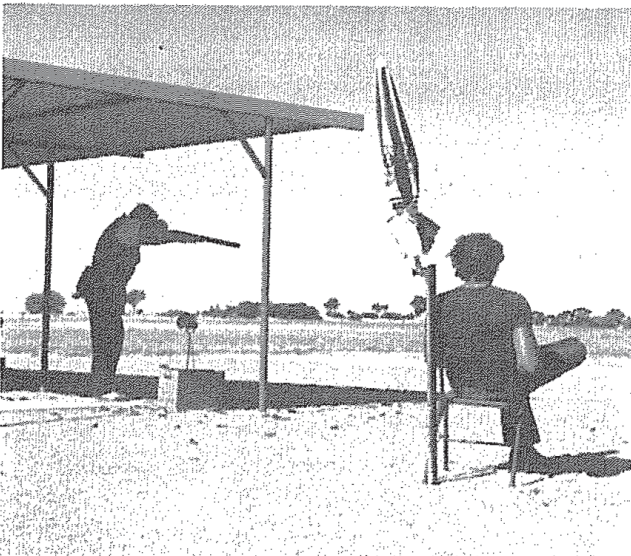

Thirty astute shooters turned out more to compete with the wind than with each other, and so started the 1984 State Titles.

After about the first round, a minor fault developed with the release mechanism. Several shooters stated they were going to get their five shot Brownings to even the score as the machines were throwing a continuous stream of targets as soon as the microphones were activated. It seemed that if they couldn't hit one, they were going to try for one of five. However the fault was quickly rectified, and the day progressed smoothly.

With the lack of shooting so early in the year, results were not that good. Some shooters blamed the glare from the early morning light on the targets while others thought of various other reasons for missing targets. John Fissoli, Club Captain, who normally would never fall below about 23, carded rounds of 22, 20, 20, and 20 for the day. John wasn't alone in this feat. David Kevill, one of our best shots at this game, returned 20 and 19 for his first two rounds. Surprise of surprises.

At the end of the first one hundred targets the respective leaders were yours truly, Chas Riegert on 92/100 from John Kevill and John Harris on 90/100. After this there was a gaggle of shooters on 87/100. Not what one would call good scores for a State Title.

With squads listed for Sunday, it was decided to put the starting time back to 10 o'clock.

• Chas Riegert in action on Station 5. Max Cubic is the scorer.

SUNDAY 19

Sunday was a cool repetition of Saturday, but without the cloud.

The Club Committee had the previous evening drawn lots from the hat and the programme changed from number 3 to number 6. This programme was queried by some shooters as it was the programme practised during the previous week. However the draw remained.

Contrary to last year's results, there was no Royal Plunge into oblivion by the early leaders.

At the completion of the first fifty targets for the day, taking the total shot at (mind you, I said shot AT, not shot) to 150, the State Team was a foregone conclusion.

The 1984 State Trench Team and results are: Chas Riegert 140/150, John Harris 137/150, John Kevill 136/150, David Kevill 132/150, Gordon Beard 131/150, Total 676/750.

In conjunction with the first 150 targets, the Interclub teams event, the Ray McPharlin Perpetual Shield, was competed for. For the fifth year in a row the C.M.T. team of D. Kevill, J. Kevill, J. Harris, K. Hopkins and R. Thomson won the Shield. However, the C.M.T. number two team gave them one hell of a scare this year, being only seven targets behind. Next year it will be a different story. Apart from three C.M.T. teams, the three other teams consisted of Collie (the only other Club to field a full team), and composite teams from E.G.G.C., Esperance, Geraldton, Perth, Azzuri and Northam.

At this stage it looked as though Chas Riegert with a three target lead over the nearest competitor was the next State Trench title holder.

This was not to be so. Chas carded his next round of 22/25 while John Harris returned 24/25. One target the difference in Chas's favour with one round left to go. Oh those holes. Once you fall in one you just can't get out. Another round of 22/25 for Chas and John only has to return another 24/25 to win his second State Trench Title, precisely what happened. Congratulations John. It's finishes like this that create spectator interest. Not that they are planned by any stretch of the imagination.

Several points of interest over the weekend come to mind. The first being the very low scores returned by all shooters. 15-16 targets down in a two hundred target event of National calibre wouldn't win a "chokky frog" to put it bluntly. I think that these results would probably be a lot better if this event was run at a later stage in the year.

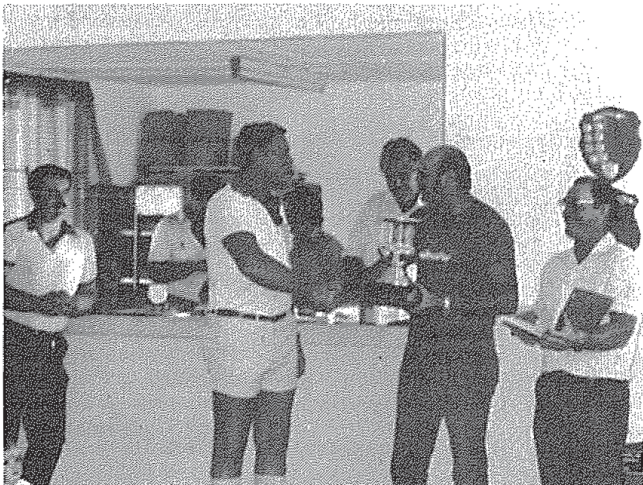

A very strong bone of contention at this Club is the lack of support, especially in the I.S.U. disciplines, by other Clubs for State Titles held at Cunderdin. Without fail, every major two-day shoot held by any other Club, ranging from Leonora to Geraldton to Esperance, and every Club in between, has a contingent of at least five to six Cunderdin competitors. Over this two-day shoot for a major State Title, the only Clubs in attendance apart from the host Club were: Esperance: Merve Tester; E.G.G.C.: Merve/Jim Neve, Max Bell; Perth: Robin Bailey and Lex Shipp; Azzurri: Murray Alexander and Andy Waschenko; Geraldton: Wally Johns and Roy Hopkins; Collie: M. Cubic, B. McCrystal, D. Fox, N. Dowey, and I must apologise to their fifth shooter as I didn't get his name.

I believe that Clubs such as Bunbury, Albany, Narrogin and Katanning could at LEAST be able to organise a couple of shooters from their respective Clubs to attend a State Title. Clubs the size of Perth and Azzurri, a total membership around the three hundred mark, can only field four shooters. It's not as though Cunderdin is on the eastern seaboard of the country and you definitely don't need an air fare to get here. Let's hope we can improve on the attendance figures in the future.

Until next time, good shooting.

ST. GEORGE GUN CLUB

VENUE FOR THE WESTERN ZONE Q.C.T.A. 7th ANNUAL TRAP CARNIVAL

To be held on July 14 & 15, 1984

Gordon Watson

The St. George Gun Club was formed in September 1936 and was one of the first gun clubs to affiliate with the A.C.T.A. outside Victoria.

In October 1937 the club held its first Annual Shoot, advertised as "Open Clay Pigeon Handicap — 1937 — Double Barrel Clay Bird Championship of Queensland, conducted under the auspices of the Australian Clay Pigeon Trap Shooting Association". The St. George Gun Club had just purchased its first automatic angle trap, an Eley, from I.C.I.

● St. George Gun Club.

The club went into recess for the Second World War and held its first Annual General Meeting to re-establish the St. George Gun Club in November 1945. The St. George Gun Club has shot each year since.

St. George is situated in the Balonne Shire which has an area of 31,183 square kilometres and is important pastorally, as over 1,000,000 sheep and over 140,000 beef cattle are depastured within its borders.

The Balonne River is well known for its fishing (cod over 30kg being caught), and the broad expanses, created by the weir at the town and the E. J. Beardmore Dam (21km upstream), are ideal for water skiing and sailing, etc.

Major Mitchell gave St. George its name when he crossed the river on St. George's Day (April 23rd) in 1846. A claim marks his crossing place. The district now comprising the Balonne Shire was first officially explored in 1846 by Sir Thomas Mitchell, Surveyor-General of New South Wales.

The Balonne-Condamine river system extends for some 1000km above St. George, with a total catchment area of some 70,000 square km. The rainfall over the catchment varies from 490mm at St. George to over 1270mm on the Great Dividing Range to the east of Warwick. The Balonne system is not perennial, but because of its huge catchment area flooding below Dirranbandi can be caused by heavy rain around Warwick.

The entire shire is underlain by the Great Artesian Basin. Generally, the water is of good quality, being suitable for all uses except irrigation. The majority of bores are 600-900 metres deep, with some as deep as 1050 metres. By arrangement with property owners it is possible to bag a wild pig or kangaroo, and also in season some nice black ducks can be taken. The popular yellow belly and Murray cod fish also abound in the rivers.

Amongst the clubs and amenities offered to the tourist in the Balonne Shire are golf, tennis, bowls, football, cricket, squash, rifle and gun clubs. There is also a motorcycle club, youth club and the usual service clubs such as Apex, Rotary and Lions, and for the ladies the Q.C.W.A., Red Cross and Hospital Auxiliary. A pistol club holds competitions. St. George boasts an Olympic sized swimming pool and the local jockey club was the first club in south-west Queensland to have the photo finish, together with its mobile starting stalls.

St. George is well known as one of the larger towns in Australia not on a railway. While this had its drawbacks in earlier days it meant the air was always clean (and it still is!). Bitumen roads and modern transport enable the town to be serviced daily from Brisbane, a distance of some 530km. An air service operates four times per week to Brisbane, Dalby and Goondiwindi. St. George has a reasonable shopping centre together with first-class motels, hotels and other amenities.

Irrigation in the St. George district was contemplated as early as 1922. In 1946 it was decided to build a weir at St. George for town water supply and to provide an initial storage for irrigation in the area. Large areas of land were cleared and by the early 1970s some 52,000ha were under the plough. The irrigation area has demonstrated its suitability for a large range of crops, chief of which is cotton. Other include sunflowers, soya beans and grain cereals.

As is the custom at all water storages constructed by the Queensland Water Resources Commission, picnic shelters, barbecues, toilets and playground facilities are provided in attractive park-like settings adjacent to the E. J. Beardmore Dam.

So, shooters near and far, if you would like to enjoy a great weekend of Clay Target Shooting, and perhaps put in a few more days fishing or hunting, pack up your gear and head out to the Western Zone Trap Carnival being held on July 14 and 15 at St. George in south-west Queensland.

EASTER SHOOT — ESPERANCE BAY

Rene Thompson

Esperance Bay Gun Club again held a very successful Easter Shoot when 95 shooters from as far away as Geraldton attended.

As with previous Easter Shoots the businessmen of the district have to be thanked for their generosity, as without their support the trophies would not have been of such high standard.

Thanks to the office staff who kept cards and boards etc., up to date. The ladies again excelled themselves — it's no small job to feed all those shooters and their families, with only a few helpers.

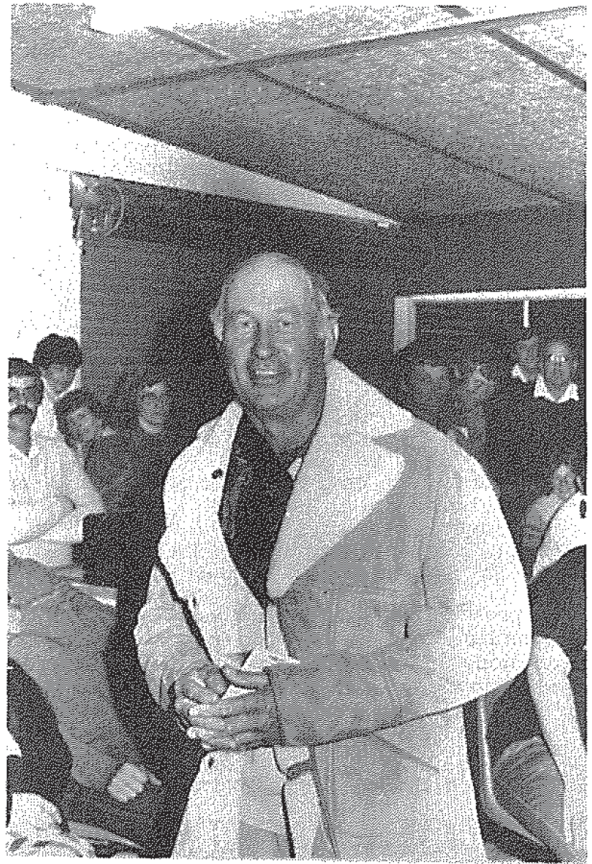

The trappies were untiring in their task of keeping the clays flying. Thanks girls and boys.

The first event of the weekend was Double Rise on Friday afternoon. This was won by Jim Neve, who took out overall and A Grade with a score of 19/20. Second in A Grade was David Fox of Collie.

1st B Grade was Max Cubic, also from Collie, with a score of 18/20. Second (after a shoot-off with D. Burchard and B. Livingston) was Elliott Harris from Cunderdin with 25/30, David Browning with 18/20 from Salmon Gums won C Grade with Fred Fairless from Southern Cross second.

EDITOR'S MAILBOX

Dear Sir,

1984 AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL CLAY TARGET CHAMPIONSHIPS

On behalf of the Wagga Wagga Tourism Promotion Committee may I congratulate the N.S.W. Clay Target Association and the Wagga Gun Club for staging such a successful National Clay Target Championships in Wagga Wagga over the period 31 March to 5 April 1984.

From all reports people visiting for the shoot had a wonderful time. This was made possible certainly by the magnificent weather you had for the duration of the Championships, but more particularly by the organisational effort that was put in by the Wagga Gun Club.

The Wagga Wagga Tourism Promotion Committee acknowledges the value of an event like this being held in a City such as ours and was pleased to be involved in welcoming your visitors. It is perhaps of interest to know that the motels commented that the group guests here for the Nationals were the best they had ever had.

The City at large benefited greatly from your Championships. We would therefore be eager to support any future such event that might be drawn to Wagga Wagga.

President,
